FOCUS SHORTS

Homeless teen artists plan peace art projects

Rise Above, an art program for homeless teens at A Safe Place for Youth, a Hillsboro shelter, will participate in the Ninth Biennial Global Art Project for Peace.

The teens and project organizers are inviting adults and children, individuals and groups to participate in the multicultural celebration of global peace and goodwill through art.

In March/April 2010, participants around the world will create, exhibit and exchange art expressing their ideas of a peaceful global community resulting in thousands of messages of peace and goodwill simultaneously encircling the Earth during the week of April 23-30.

For additional information about the project and how to get involved by participating, volunteering and/or funding the project, visit www.globalartproject.org or send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Global Art Project, P.O. Box 40445, Tucson, Ariz., 85717.
