

Pacific University-Forest Grove, Oregon

Pacific

WHEN YOU CHOOSE PACIFIC, YOU ARE CHOOSING . . .

. . . a place of history, a part of tomorrow. Founded in 1849, the University is one of the oldest institutions of higher learning in the Pacific Northwest. Pacific graduates are leaders in the fields of business, optometry, education, journalism, and athletics throughout the United States. The University has a student ombudsman, a black studies program, an independent studies program for tailor-made instruction, a "mini-mester" program for individualized in-depth study, and broad student participation in all aspects of University life.

. . . a scenic environment. Pacific Ocean beaches . . . the rugged Coast Range . . . the Columbia River Gorge . . . the magnificent Cascades . . . and the stark beauty of the Central Oregon desert are all within a few hours of the campus. The University is located in Forest Grove, Oregon, a quiet community only minutes away from metropolitan Portland with its population of over one million. Pacific offers a combination of educational challenge, outdoor recreation, and urban entertainment.

. . . a pleasant campus. With its avenues of white birches, mighty oaks, ancient redwoods, and tall firs, Pacific's campus is a natural setting for the pursuit of a liberal arts education. New construction within the last ten years has included a modern library, a media-arts learning center, a University Center, and a gymnasium fieldhouse which is used by the Portland Trailblazers of the NBA for training. Complementing the natural beauty of the campus, is the Blodgett Arboretum, 12 miles west of Forest Grove. This 125-acre tract boasts a multitude of rare plant life and is used extensively for academic purposes.

FIELDS OF STUDY. Pacific University is a co-educational, fully accredited institution of higher learning. Fields of study offered at Pacific include: Biology; Business-Economics; Chemistry; Communications; Education (Elementary and Secondary); English; Fine Arts (Art, Dance, Drama); French; German; History; Literature; Mathematics; Medical Technology; Music; Optometry; Optics; Philosophy; Physical Education; Physics; Political Science; Pre-Engineering; Pre-Law; Pre-Medical; Pre-Nursing; Pre-Veterinary; Psychology; Religion; Sociology; Spanish; and Speech.

AN OUTSTANDING FACULTY. The teaching faculty numbers 100. The emphasis is on teaching and giving the student a very personalized experience. Not only do Pacific professors excel in their academic fields, but many bring their expertise to bear on society's problems. Political science professors — and others — hold governmental office; sociology instructors deal with crucial social problems; music faculty members participate in professional orchestras . . . These extra activities are accomplished on private time — not at the expense of classroom teaching. Pacific offers a personalized education. No assistants, but outstanding professors, do the teaching. Such special programs as Independent Studies let you hand-tailor your education. The student-faculty ratio is approximately 12-1.

A HIGHLY DIVERSIFIED STUDENT BODY. The 1,250 men and women at Pacific come from 43 states and 17 foreign countries. Over two-thirds of Pacific's students come from outside of Oregon. The University has selected students from throughout the United States and from many ethnic groups to form one of the most cosmopolitan student bodies in the Northwest. This is very much by design. An intrinsic part of Man's education is meeting, living with, and understanding his fellow man. Pacific offers a chance to participate; students are involved in all major phases of university operations. Likewise, there is broad student-faculty participation in the many outdoor sports available in the local area and in the cultural events available in nearby Portland.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES. As a member of the Northwest Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, Pacific fields varsity and freshman teams in football, basketball, wrestling, baseball, track, tennis, golf, and cross-country. In addition, the University offers the most extensive intramural sports program in the greater Northwest.

The University Center is the hub of campus activity. It offers the modern and comfortable Snack Bar; a spacious lobby; special student cafe; a large multi-purpose room (for dances, movies, assemblies and meetings); the University Commons, and several small meeting rooms.

Students produce these publications: the weekly newspaper; a literary magazine; and the Heart of Oak, student yearbook. The University debate team perennially is a contender in regional and national competition.

Various clubs offer satisfaction for students with special interests, including mountain climbing, business investing, politics.

SOME FACTS ON COSTS. Academic achievement, potential, and financial need are three principal factors considered in awarding financial aid. Assistance is given to some 35 per cent of an entering class. Candidates must apply for admission before applying for financial aid. Financial aid grants are based on the Parents' Confidential Statement, which must be filed with the College Scholarship Service. This form is the only requirement for consideration of all types of financial aid.
