

Congressman
Les AuCoin.
Keep him.

He's there when we need him.

Les was there to vote “no” on the $1.5 billion bailout of Chrysler, and “yes” on a truly balanced budget.

Les was there to vote “no” on taxing Social Security benefits, and “yes” on helping senior citizens pay their heating bills.

Les was there to vote “no” on hiking the gas tax 10 cents, and “yes” on creating the Solar Bank.

Les was there to vote “no” on the B-1 Boondoggle and unworkable, gold-plated super-weapons like the MX Missile, and “yes” on increasing pay for our most valuable weapon — the American soldier.

Les was there to vote “no” on extravagant federal spending, and “yes” on reforestation, rebuilding our maritime fleet and new housing. His legislation accounted for more than 500,000 units of housing to help boost Oregon’s timber economy.

Les was there to vote “no” on withholding interest earnings on savings, and “yes” on raising the amount of interest small savers can earn.

He's here when we need him.

Les travels 100,000 miles a year to come home — to listen. He visits every county, every city, even small ones like Blodgett and Mist. He holds townhall meetings. He maintains a toll-free number (1-800-452-1920) so anyone anywhere can reach him with a problem. He helps more than 2,000 Oregonians annually untangle red tape.

Les was here to call the White House after Mount St. Helens erupted, and within 24 hours the President of the United States was here. Les was here after the President left to get federal disaster relief for Oregon farmers and small businessmen.

Les was here to do the homework that kept Amtrak's Pioneer train rolling.

Les was here to prevent senior citizens from being tossed out of downtown hotels converted into apartments.

Les was here when the people of Tillamook needed their jetty lengthened, when the residents of Aloha needed the Post Office brought down a peg or two, when a family in Hillsboro needed help in reuniting three orphan sisters.
